USE SOVIET MACHINES IN KOMLO MINES; INVESTIGATE KARST WATER PROBLEM

OPER NEW COAL BEDS -- Hudapest, Nepszava, 26 Mar 52

In the Kossuth shaft of the Komlo mines over 200 miners are employed in opening up new coal beds. Many of the machines used were manufactured in the USSR, such as the loading machine which can fill a lorry within $1\frac{1}{2}$ minutes.

FACE PROBLEM OF KARST WATER INUMBATING MINES -- Budapest, Fuggetlen Magyaror-szag, 31 Mar 52

Karst water inundating mines, especially in the region west of the Danube, has long been a problem of Hungarian miners. In 1949, the Karst water pumped from the Tatabanya mines amounted to six times the weight of the coal extracted; in Dorog, 12.5 times; in Pilisszentivan, 15.2 times; and in Ajka, 21.8 times.

The technical department of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences has started an investigation of the problem.

MECHANIZE MINES -- Berlin, Aussenhandelsnachrichten, 5 Apr 52

Mechanization of the Komlo mines continues. It is expected that in the near future four new shafts will be placed in operation. The erection of a freight station in Komlo to facilitate shipping of the coal is also planned.

A short time ago, a factory for repairing and manufacturing mining machinery started operation in the Komlo mine region.
